

Hello Warrior Parents and Students,

Over the past few weeks we have listened to parents, students, and teachers regarding plans for second semester. We have used that feedback to make adjustments that we feel will benefit our parents, students, and teachers.

Williams will keep the hybrid cohort schedule, however, beginning second semester, live instruction will be available to all students Tuesday through Friday:

- Cohort A (Tues/Thurs)- Face-to-Face attends on campus; School@Home participates synchronously
- Cohort B (Wed/Fri)- Face-to-Face attends on campus; School@Home participates synchronously
- All students are encouraged to participate synchronously on their asynchronous learning days.

The learning experience for students participating synchronously on their asynchronous day will vary throughout the semester, which may include new content, lesson preview, lesson review, extension, and content chunking while also allowing asynchronous students access to teacher Q&A, real-time feedback, and/or time to log off for independent work after initial synchronous connection. Joining in the lesson synchronously will also serve as an opportunity to meet attendance requirements on asynchronous days. Please note that students will still have asynchronous assignments; however, lessons will be designed so that accessing live instruction will help students complete their asynchronous work more accurately and efficiently. In addition, we will begin utilizing a teacher-facilitated online learning platform targeting reading growth for all students during advisory.

Most Mondays will remain asynchronous learning days with the required homeroom check-in. All classes will have asynchronous lessons on Mondays. Students are expected to access these lessons and complete them by submitting them through Google Classroom on their Chromebooks.
