Parents.....How You Can Help?

Make sure you have discussed Tips for Being a Successful Dual Credit Student with your student

Prepare them for what to expect

College gives students a tremendous amount of freedom.

No one is monitoring their progress on a daily basis. No one knows whether they're doing the assignments. Students should be prepared to do most of their learning on their own.

Self-motivation and discipline are important. A general guideline is that for every one hour spent in class, college students should spend two hours out of class reading, studying and completing assignments.

Let them do it on their own
